Audit assessment and Compliance – Franklin County Sheriff’s Office (FCSO) - UPDATE

Rick Stallings: FCSO was re-audited by Field Agent Kim Freeman.
- Ms. Freeman found errors in protection order and wanted person file.
- Some incomplete information in the protection order and inaccurate and incomplete information in wanted file.
- FCSO were found to be within the threshold that we set for the audits.
- They did not fail this audit and there was improvement.

Advanced Authentication Token –UPDATES

Brad Cazort: Last Board Meeting we talked about tokens and you asked that we look into other options.
- A police car is considered a secure location as far as CIIS is concerned.
- A token is not necessary if that mobile data terminal is in a locked position.
- If the local agency has a policy that says these units will not be used to make inquiries to our system unless they are in the car or in a law enforcement building then tokens are no longer needed.
- We would like to work with State Police and Little Rock (our two largest token users) and develop a policy that says that, and then they would be able to return all those tokens to us.
- This would give us a large inventory, which means we don’t need to go buy anymore.

Asst. Chief Hayward Finks: Someone has already reached out?
Brad Cazort: No, we will do that.

Directors Report:

Director Brad Cazort:
• All eight (8) FBI Audit Reports are completed.
• Four (4) of the Audits; The non-criminal Justice technical security audit; criminal justice technical security audit; NICS entry and NDEx Audit all came back with no findings.
• Our NCIC audit came back with minor findings; several agencies were using improper codes. FBI accepted our plan of additional training and actions we have taking to remunerate that problem.
• The Sex Offender Audit came back with the one finding we were expecting; they aren’t happy with how we upload information to NCIC even though when we designed our current system they said it was fine.
• We have two (2) audits out; NIS (non-criminal justice records), indication are no findings; QAR audit, (crime statistics) and we don’t have the official report back for that.
• Replacements for the Mondo pad are in and they will be installed by our next board meeting.
• Conference next year will be in Little Rock, May 5-7, 2020.
• ACIC is now a part of the Department of Public Safety; Jami Cook (ALETA) named Secretary of the Department.
